COMPANY BACKGROUND & OVERVIEW

Indonesia is blessed with abundant coconut resources, supported by its tropical climate and extensive coastal areas. These resources offer significant opportunities for the development of coconut-based products for domestic and international markets.

Coconut meat can be processed into various products, including desiccated coconut, coconut flour, coconut chips, and other coconut-based ingredients used in the food and beverage industry.

With the growing opportunities in the global coconut industry, PT Tropanica Coco Raya was established to connect Indonesia's coconut resources with international markets through product sourcing, export activities, and strategic partnerships.

ABOUT US

PT Tropanica Coco Raya is an Indonesian company focused on sourcing and exporting coconut-based products, particularly products derived from coconut meat.

We work with local suppliers and processing partners to provide coconut products that meet market requirements, with an emphasis on quality, product consistency, and reliable business relationships.

Through our commitment to professional service and mutually beneficial partnerships, we aim to introduce Indonesia's coconut products to international markets while creating opportunities for sustainable business growth.

VISION & MISION

"Together we Grow, Together we Go Global"

VISION

To become the main bridge between Indonesia's natural richness and the global market through high-quality exports that empower local communities.

MISION

Introducing Indonesia's natural richness to the world while empowering local farmers and producers through fair and mutually beneficial partnerships.

OUR BUSINESS & PRODUCTS

Desiccated Coconut - Low Fat

Low Fat Desiccated Coconut is a dried coconut product characterized by its lower fat content compared to the high fat variant. It offers a lighter coconut flavor and aroma, making it suitable for food applications that require desiccated coconut with a lower fat content.

Main Characteristics

Texture: Available in particle sizes according to product specifications.
Fat Content: High fat content.
Color: Natural white to cream.
Aroma: Mild and characteristic coconut aroma.
Taste: Natural coconut flavor with a lighter taste

Applications : Suitable for bakery products such as bread, cakes, cookies, and pastries. It can also be used in biscuits, snack products, granola, cereal mixtures, desserts, and traditional food products.

Key Advantages : Features a lower fat content compared to the High Fat variant while maintaining its natural coconut characteristics. Its lighter flavor makes it suitable for various food formulations that require a lower-fat coconut ingredient.

OUR BUSINESS & PRODUCTS

Desiccated Coconut - High Fat

High Fat Desiccated Coconut is a dried grated coconut product made from selected fresh coconut meat with a naturally high fat content. It offers a rich coconut flavor, distinctive aroma, and creamy characteristics, making it suitable for food applications that require a stronger coconut taste.

Main Characteristics

Texture: Available in particle sizes according to product specifications.
Fat Content: Low fat content.
Color: Natural white to cream.
Aroma: Mild and characteristic coconut aroma.
Taste: Natural coconut flavor with a lighter taste

Applications : Suitable for bakery products such as bread, cakes, cookies, and pastries. It can also be used as a topping for desserts and beverages, as well as an ingredient in granola, snack mixtures, and traditional food fillings.

Key Advantages : Offers a rich and distinctive coconut flavor, with natural coconut fat contributing to a creamier taste and texture. Available in different particle sizes to support various food applications and product formulations.
